I've laughed out loud, gasped in amazement, cringed in shame and weeped with sadness and horror. Sara Pascoe has written this book in such a seamlessly effortless and honest way; to the point that i forgot i was reading, as it felt like i was down the pub having a heart-to-heart with one of my nearest and dearest.

Sara Pascoe's first book, Animal is an exploration of women's bodies, emotions and sexualities. Pascoe's book is divided into three sections: love, body and consent, and uses scientific and evolutionary theory to explore the problems and vulnerabilities women face today (and throughout history), as well as featuring some personal insights from Pascoe, and of course, comedic commentary.

A biography is an account of a person written by another person, whereas an autobiography is the story of the life of a person written by himself. 1. In writing the autobiography of an animal or an inanimate object, we must try to put ourselves in the position of the object or an animal you are writing about and imagine the things which it would see, feel and say if it were alive or could speak.

Animal is more anthropology than autobiography. No mention of life on the road, big breaks or meeting celebrities, this is more of a self-help manual. Mainly for young women I would suggest, but all women and all men should read it too. Animal is divided into three main sections, Love, Body and Consent.
